

MULTIPLE SUBJECT CREDENTIAL PROFESSIONAL PREPARATION PROGRAM

CSUF INTERN OPTION - THREE SEMESTER

(to earn a Teaching Credential for Elementary Schools)

California State University at Fullerton offers a three semester Intern program leading to a Multiple Subject Credential. This option requires one semester as a full-time, day student where the candidate has classes in reading, foundations of teaching and methodology, along with a five-week student teaching assignment. If recommended for the intern program, the candidate is then able to complete the program with two more semesters of evening classes while teaching full time and earning full teacher salary and benefits.

Admission

Prospective candidates must apply both for admission to California State University, Fullerton, and for admission to the Multiple Subject Professional Preparation Program. Requirements for entering the program, including prerequisite courses, are listed on another page. Applications are due Feb. 28 for fall enrollment and September 30 for the spring semester. Attendance at an informational overview will help with the application process. Call 714-278-3412 for overview information.

The Program

Following acceptance, credential candidates are assigned to a “block” of 25-30 students for their first semester, daytime program. Registration for all classes is by one “block” number and spaces are automatically held for accepted students. Support and supervision are given throughout the program. During first semester candidates may apply to be moved to the intern block for the next two semesters.
