WELCOME BACK, FUTURE TEACHERS!

We hope you have had a wonderful summer! For some of you, this is your first semester at CSUF and for others, graduation caps and gowns are coming close to view. Whether you’ve been here for a few weeks or a few years, we want to welcome/re-welcome you to the Center for Careers in Teaching (CCT)!

An important mission of the CCT is ensuring you have proper academic advisement so you may have an efficient pathway toward becoming a teacher. You can schedule a thirty-minute advising appointment while you’re in our Center or over the phone at 657.278.7130. We are now offering evening advising on Tuesdays (more info below) if that happens to work better for your schedule, and we will also have a very informative workshop series that has been specifically designed for future teachers, beginning September 6. RSVP for one, two or all three workshops by clicking here.

Wishing you a successful fall semester!

FUTURE TEACHER WORKSHOP SERIES

Three workshops. Three different topics. Three chances to win.

The Center for Careers in Teaching surveyed groups of future teachers to see in what areas they wanted extra support. We have designed a workshop series with those topics in mind.

Teacher clubs and resources. Demystifying the CBEST/CSET. Writing as a teacher. We’ll cover all this throughout our series. Sounds helpful, right?

An opportunity-drawing to win a teaching credential program application fee waiver, a $50 value, will be available at each workshop (limited to one per student).

Workshop #1: September 6
Workshop #2: October 11
Workshop #3: November 15
12:30-1:30 pm
Cal State Fullerton
Pollack Library North
Room 403
