Minor in Adolescent Development
Department of Child and Adolescent Studies

Planning to teach middle or high school students?
This 18-unit minor will prepare you to better understand teenagers

Why minor in adolescent development?
- Gain a deep understanding of cognitive, biological, and social-emotional development in the teenage years
- Learn strategies to support healthy adolescent development in diverse contexts
- Showcase your expertise in adolescent development on your transcript and resume—you'll stand out when applying for graduate school or jobs!

Which courses count toward the minor?
- CAS 330   Adolescence and Early Adulthood
- CAS 345   Development in Diverse Family Contexts
- CAS 360   Adolescents and the Media
- CAS 365   Adolescent Pregnancy and Parenting
- EDSC 340   Diversity in Secondary Schools
- SOCI 413   Juvenile Delinquency
- … and many more!

Some courses count toward GE and/or the single-subject teaching credential!

I want to add the minor, what's next?
1. Register for CAS 101, CAS 312, or CAS 315
   (and any of our classes that do not have pre-requisites)
2. Visit the CAS Department Office (EC-503) to declare the minor
3. See a CAS advisor to make an academic plan for the minor
