Program Overview & Requirements
Literacy and Reading Department Mission Statement

The Department of Literacy and Reading Education faculty believe that reading is a developmental, social, and meaning-making process. Reading is embedded within the broader constructs of literacy, or “the ability to understand, interpret, create, compute, and communicate using visual, audible, and digital materials across disciplines and in any context. This includes affirming the multiple literacies that permeate students’ homes, schools, and communities. Effective equity-minded specialized literacy professionals must have a thorough knowledge of the theoretical underpinnings and relevant pedagogies of literacy and learning. The Department faculty adopt an approach that meaningfully integrates anti-racist pedagogy and issues of social justice and inclusiveness as related to students’ intersecting identities. Literacy instruction involves making informed choices about the multitude of issues that impact curriculum and assessment and a deep analysis and evaluation of students’ strengths and needs. The Department of Literacy and Reading Education focuses on the need to think critically and creatively and consider possible alternatives so that candidates are prepared to become advocates for students, families, and their communities.

Literacy and Reading Education Student Learning Outcomes

The Program will allow students to integrate knowledge and skills acquired in diverse set of courses and fieldwork experiences to achieve the following student learning outcomes:

- Demonstrate knowledge of theoretical and historical research, relevant theories, pedagogies, and essential concepts related to literacy teaching and learning.
- Students will advance just, equitable, and inclusive education, including providing opportunities for understanding students’ intersecting identities; create classrooms and schools that are inclusive and affirming; advocate for equity at school, district, and community levels.
- Students will make informed decisions about curriculum, technology, assessment, professional learning and advocate for appropriate literacy practices.
- Students will demonstrate literacy leadership potential and engage in ongoing inquiry to improve their professional practice.
- Students will apply theory and evidence-based best practice in multiple fieldwork/clinical experiences.

Just, Equitable, Inclusive Education

The College of Education is committed to Just, Equitable, Inclusive Education (JEIE).

- Definitions and the framework the framework regarding JEIE at: http://ed.fullerton.edu/about-the-college/jeie.php

The COE Strategic Goals and COE Conceptual Framework

Goal 1: Provide a transformative educational experience and environment for all students
Goal 2: Strengthen opportunities for student completion and graduation
Goal 3: Recruit and retain a high-quality and diverse faculty and staff
Goal 4: Expand and strengthen our financial and physical capacity

For updates on COE goals and framework visit, http://ed.fullerton.edu/about-the-college/accreditation-assessment/conceptual-framework.php
COE Disposition Statement

Faculty model and encourage all candidates to reflect dispositions that represent the values and attitudes expected of professionals in the field of education. These dispositions are based on the Education Unit’s conceptual framework and encompass several behavioral indicators within the three program outcomes. For more information on COE Disposition please visit, http://ed.fullerton.edu/about-the-college/accreditation-assessment/candidate-dispositions.php

Standards for Continued Participation in Credential Programs at CSUF: Policy One

The credential programs endeavor to admit only candidates who have demonstrated through the application process that they possess the important characteristics necessary to be successful educators:

- Respect for all individuals enriched by an understanding of culture and diversity
- Commitment to working collaboratively
- Commitment to lifelong learning
- Wide constellation of knowledge and skills
- Ethical character demonstrated by having integrity, and being trustworthy, honest, courteous, open-minded, and by treating others fairly and impartially.

For more information related to Policy One, refer to: http://ed.fullerton.edu/_resources/pdfs/policy-one-standards-for-participation.pdf

California State University Fullerton Credential Programs Committee Proficiency in Written and Spoken English: Policy Two

This policy applies to all credential programs at California State University Fullerton. Executive Order No. 1077, Teacher Education Preliminary Credential Programs, was issued on May 3, 2012 by Chancellor Charles B. Reed. It establishes standards for entrance to and continuation in teacher education credential programs. The document lists a number of requirements for admissions to credential programs, including g.p.a.; early field experiences; and prerequisite courses. It also requires at least one interview and two letters of recommendation to help determine a candidate's aptitude for teaching. Also included is Requirement 7: “The candidate shall have demonstrated proficiency in written and spoken English, as determined by the campus, and shall have taken the California Basic Educational Skills Test.”
For more information related to Policy Two, refer to: http://ed.fullerton.edu/_resources/pdfs/policy-two.pdf

Program Overview

The Literacy and Reading Education Department at CSUF offers graduate programs of study that lead to:

a) the degree of Master of Science, Education with a Concentration in Literacy and Reading;
b) the California Reading and Literacy Added Authorization;
c) the Reading and Literacy Leadership Specialist Credential;
d) the Postsecondary Reading and Learning Certificate.

In addition, the Literacy and Reading Department offers undergraduate courses in academic reading, vocabulary development, critical reading and thinking, and language and literacy in young children. In an age of increasing demands for a highly literate society, program faculty strive to prepare reading professionals who truly understand how to integrate contemporary theories of reading with sound pedagogical science. Our programs are accredited by the California Commission on Teacher Credentialing and the National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education.

Credential & Added Authorization Requirements

Admission into programs leading to licensure and credentialing does not guarantee that students will obtain a license or credential. Licensure and credentialing requirements are set by agencies that are not controlled by or affiliated with the CSU and requirements can change at any time. For example, licensure or credentialing requirements can include evidence of the right to work in the United States (e.g., social security number or taxpayer identification number) or successfully passing a criminal background check. Students are responsible for determining whether they can meet licensure or credentialing requirements. The CSU will not refund tuition, fees, or any associated costs, to students who determine subsequent to admission that they cannot meet licensure or credentialing requirements. Information concerning licensure and credentialing requirements are available within programs or departments.

Individuals must satisfy all the following requirements:

1. Possess a valid basic California teaching credential, which may be one of the following:
   a. a teaching credential requiring a bachelor’s degree and a professional preparation program, including student teaching
   b. a clear, full-time designated subjects teaching credential, provided that the holder also possesses a bachelor’s degree and has met the basic skills requirement. See Commission leaflet CL-667, entitled Basic Skills Requirement for additional information.

2. Possess an English Learner Authorization

3. Provide verification of three years successful, full-time teaching experience in any grade or subject, preschool through adult exclusive of student teaching, intern teaching, or teaching while holding an emergency or teaching permit
4. Application Information:

Master’s degree completed
Program Standards and Requirements for Program Participation

Getting Started

- Attend New Student Orientation. At this meeting you will create your Master's Degree Study Plan and receive critical information about expectations for the program, course requirements, to our online course platforms (CANVAS), and other general information.

- Familiarize yourself with Titanium. Valuable resources are located in your courses and in the Literacy and Reading MS Titanium Community site.

- Enroll in READ 514 during your first semester since it is a requirement for the Master's degree, the Reading and Literacy Added Authorization, and the Reading and Literacy Leadership Specialist Credential, and meets the University Graduate Writing Requirement.

- Prior to beginning your first week of classes, provide evidence of either a valid (current) teaching credential or a live scan. The preferred documentation required when graduate students participate in practicum experiences is a live scan or a copy of a current California credential. These documents must be uploaded to Literacy and Reading MS Titanium Community site.

Developing, Filing, and Completing your Study Plan

- Before the end of your first semester in the program, make a telephone or in-person appointment to create your official MS Study Plan with Dr. Rosario Ordonez-Jasis. Most Student Plans will be developed during the New Student Orientation.

  Note: The MS Study Plan is for the master's degree program only, although all of the courses for the Literacy and Reading Added Authorization and Reading and Literacy Leadership Specialist Credential are included in that Degree Program.

- You will receive notification from the Office of Graduate Studies when your Study Plan is approved. Be sure to file your approved copy of your Study Plan: This is your contract that if you successfully complete the coursework as stated, you will qualify for the Degree.

- If you intend to change your choice of READ 595 (Comps), READ 597 (Project) or READ 598 (Thesis), you must contact the Graduate Program Advisor and submit the Change of Study Plan form that is available at the website: Office of Graduate Studies

- Coursework on the Study Plan normally must be completed in five years. A two-year extension may be granted. Forms to request a two-year extensions are available at the website: Office of Graduate Studies
Meeting Course Requirements

- Successful completion of coursework includes taking all courses for a grade (required), earning a grade no lower than C in each course, and maintaining an overall B (3.0) GPA average.

- If you are unable to finish the course, it is your responsibility to follow the appropriate procedures for dropping the course. In the event that you need to withdraw from a course, it is your responsibility to review the appropriate deadlines with The Office of Admissions and Records.

- Incompletes will be granted only under extreme circumstances and students must be earning a B or better at the time of the request for an Incomplete. The instructor must be informed as soon as possible if circumstances warrant discontinuation of the course.

- Note that READ 511 is a prerequisite for enrollment in READ 560.

- Note that READ 516 is a prerequisite for enrollment in READ 581.

- Attend the Online Midpoint Advising after you have successfully completed READ 511 and READ 516. It is designed to prepare you for your final two semesters in the program by reviewing end-of-program requirements.

Comprehensive Exam, Thesis, or Project

- Complete EITHER the written Comprehensive Examination (READ 595 – 1 unit) OR the Master's Thesis (READ 598 – 1 unit) OR the Masters Project (READ 597 – 1 unit).

- If you plan to do a Project or Thesis: Be sure to complete a Project or Thesis Proposal the semester before you register for READ 597 or READ 598. See additional Project information in this Handbook. The Project Guidelines are posted in the Literacy and Reading MS Titanium Community site.

- If you opt for READ 597 (Project), rather than READ 595 (Comps), you are required to complete the Project within a maximum of three semesters. After the first semester you must register through Extended Education to maintain continuous enrollment.

- Thesis only- Submit Thesis to the University Thesis Reader in Graduate Studies and make arrangements for binding, microfilming and publication of the abstract and Thesis in the campus bookstore by the applicable deadline. Deadlines are posted on the Graduate Studies website.

- Project and Thesis: Deposit one library bound copy of the Thesis or Project - with approved advisors signatures - to the Literacy and Reading Department. For binding, contact The Center for Oral and Public History, 3rd floor in library (PLS 363, 657-278-3580). If you live far from campus, you can send a PDF to Titan Shops (bookstore) for copying and binding. Contact at (657) 278 - 4981 and Mike Dickerson for Thesis-Project-Binding.
Completion of University Level Requirements

You must maintain continuous enrollment through the program. If you are unable to enroll in a given semester, one alternative is to request a Leave of Absence. Guidelines and forms for requesting a Leave of Absence are available at the: Office of Graduate Studies website

Another means of maintaining enrollment is to enroll in Graduate Studies 700 through Extended Education. This “course” carries no unit credit and does not require class attendance.

- Apply for a graduation check prior to the beginning of the final semester and no later than the deadline initiating university review and formal approval by faculty. The form is available on your Student Portal. Please refer our guide on How to Pay Graduation Fee

- Submit 4 professional references using the forms provided in this Handbook. Two (2) of the references must be completed by faculty in the Literacy and Reading Department, and two (2) must be completed by administrators or teachers within your district or workplace. Be sure to keep copies for your records and submit the originals to the Department Program Coordinator

- If you need to change your graduation date you must fill out and submit an update card. These forms are located in the Office of Graduate Studies

- Watch your campus e-mail and Student Center To-Do List for information on paying for the graduation check once you have applied. A graduation and diploma fee are required. You are not required to pay the graduation fee at the time of application for graduation. However, you will be required to pay the graduation fee to Student Financial Services (UH-180, 657-278-2495) before you can become a candidate for graduation.

- Complete all general and specific requirements, other than final course examinations, by the last day of classes, in order to assure granting of the degree by the end of the semester.

- Final verification of completion of requirements is sent by the Office of Graduate Studies to the registrar. You will receive notification of the award of the degree from the registrar approximately ten weeks after the end of the semester.
The California Literacy and Reading Added Authorization and the Reading and Literacy Leadership Specialist Credential

- After completing the coursework for either the Added Authorization or Credential, you will need to obtain verification of 3 years of full-time teaching experience. Be sure to keep a copy for your records and submit the originals to the Department Program Coordinator

- Apply for the Added Authorization or Credential through the Credential Office AFTER your final grades have been posted. Contact the Credential Preparation Center in, Suite 540 (657-278-4873) or visit http://ed.fullerton.edu/cpc/. Items to submit:
  - Application
  - $25 fee (check or money order made payable to CSUF)
  - Copy of valid CA teaching credential
  - Verification of Experience (required for both the Added Authorization and Credential)
  - There is no deadline to apply for your credential. We recommend that you do it sooner rather than later, even if you don’t plan on using it right away.

- Review Application Information:
  - Reading and Literacy Added Authorization
  - Reading and Literacy Leadership Specialist

- A graduate degree Study Plan is different from a clear credential study plan. Contact the Credential Preparation Center in College Park, Suite 540 (657-278-3205) to develop a clear credential study plan if you need to clear you credential. The two plans may overlap.

Commencement

- Check the official commencement website for updated information.
- Make appropriate arrangements for your cap, gown and hood rental in Titan Shops, the campus bookstore -
- Commencement ceremonies take place once a year in May.

Standard 2: Promoting a culture of literacy

2.4 and fostering students’ independence, engagement, motivation, and positive attitude towards reading, and development of a lifelong habit of reading and writing for pleasure and information.

Standard 3:

3.3 The program provides opportunities for candidates to learn the normal progression of complexity for each component of literacy, as explicated in the Foundations/Standards and their Frameworks, the expected stages and patterns in students’ development including early and adolescent literacy, the implications of delays or differences in students’ literacy development relative to grade level standards, and when such delays/differences warrant further assessment, differentiated instruction and intervention.

3.4 The program provides opportunities for candidates to learn instructional sequences and routines that develop and accelerate students’ language and literacy learning, including RtI², and how to maximize students’ literacy development by using the reciprocal relationships among the components of a research-based literacy program.

3.6 The program provides opportunities for candidates to learn the types and uses of assessments across the continuum of literacy skill components, including informal and curriculum-embedded assessments, and reliable and valid norm-referenced and criterion-based assessments that are used for formative and summative purposes, such as, screening, diagnosis, placement, and progress monitoring.

Standard 4:

4.3 Candidates will demonstrate the knowledge, understanding, and application of all elements of the curriculum defined in Curriculum Standards 2 and 3. Comprehensive experiences will be available for candidates to: interpret results of classroom assessments, including formative, ongoing and summative; perform additional assessments as appropriate; implement instructional strategies based on results of the assessment; and monitor and evaluate student progress.

4.5 Fieldwork must include on-going guidance, assistance, and feedback by the instructor, professor, or other designated, qualified personnel, including Reading and Literacy Leadership Specialist Credential candidates, (in conjunction with the program faculty) to ensure that candidates demonstrate the knowledge and skills identified in Standards 2 and 3.

Standard 5: Planning, Organizing and Providing Literacy Instruction

5.A3 Candidates select appropriate assessments, administer, analyze and summarize the results of the assessments and report the results in ways that are meaningful to parents, classroom teachers and administrators.

5.A4 Candidates use assessment results to guide instruction and to determine the timing of appropriate placement in and exit from intervention programs with the goal of accelerated, successful reentry into grade level standards-based programs.

IRA Standard 3: Assessment and Evaluation

Candidates use a variety of assessment tools and practices to plan and evaluate effective reading and writing instruction.

As a result, candidates:

3.1 Understand types of assessments and their purposes, strengths, and limitations.

3.2 Select, develop, administer and interpret assessments, both traditional print and electronic, for specific purposes. [Reading specialists may have responsibilities for teaching students who struggle with learning to read and must also be able to support teachers in their efforts to provide effective instruction for all students.]

Standard 2: Promoting a Culture of Literacy

2.1 The program provides opportunities to review current research on elements of an effective culture of literacy at the classroom, school, district, and community levels, including the clear and strategic use of reading, writing, listening, and speaking throughout the day, across a variety of contexts using narrative, expository and other texts, and developing online and offline reading and writing skills to meet the diverse needs of students, and the effective implementation of the adopted curriculum including the use of peer coaching and professional development.

Standard 7: Research and Evaluation Methodology

7.1 The program provides opportunities for candidates to learn basic research and evaluation methods including research design, sampling, selection of measures or instruments, and statistical procedures.

7.4 The program provides opportunities for candidates to learn to evaluate the technical adequacy of assessments, such as reliability and content and construct validity, based on psychometric standards and applicable populations, and to utilize best practices in the selection, administration, and use of assessments for developing a systemic framework to measure student progress and for planning, monitoring, evaluating, and improving instruction.

Standard 8: Advanced Professional Perspective

8.A7 The program provides opportunities for candidates to learn how to expand the curriculum to include online and offline reading and literacy experiences that incorporate multiple genres, multiple perspectives, and the use of media and communication technologies to prepare learners for literacy tasks of the 21st century.

Standard 10: Planning, Organizing, Providing, and Leading Literacy Instruction

10.B1 Candidates critically analyze and interpret research; identify appropriate research design and methodology; and recognize research that is current, confirmed, reliable and replicable.
10.C2 Candidates demonstrate advanced professional competencies in reading and literacy development, curriculum, instruction, and assessment, including a deep, rich and interconnected understanding of Program Standards 2, 3, 7 and 8.

ILA Standard 1 (Standards for Reading Professionals): Foundational Knowledge:
Candidates understand the theoretical and evidence-based foundations of reading and writing processes and instruction;

Standard 4: Diversity: Candidates create and engage their students in literacy practices that develop awareness, understanding, respect, and a valuing of differences in our society.

Standard 6: Professional Learning and Leadership: Candidates recognize the importance of, demonstrate, and facilitate professional learning and leadership as a career-long effort and responsibility.

Through the key assignment, candidates construct their own knowledge of basic research terminology, theoretical frameworks, practical literacy research methodologies, and research process and ethics so that they may successfully research a practical, equity-oriented literacy education question of their choice. Research and writing are iterative, reflective, and social, providing practice in the professional pursuit of knowledge. Focus on an equity-oriented research question of the candidate's choice is intended to promote engagement in learning that will lead to leadership in the field.

CTC Standards 7, 8, 9, 10 & 11 (Specialist Credential Level)

The program provides each candidate with:

Standard 7: Research and Evaluation Methodology

7.3 The program provides candidates the opportunity to engage in data analysis to diagnose, monitor and evaluate student progress at the individual, group, classroom, grade level, school, and district levels and to develop techniques for analyzing aggregate student data (at the school and district level) for making instructional decisions and for designing and providing staff development activities.

7.9 The program provides opportunities for candidates to develop clear communication strategies for sharing individual, classroom, school, district and state assessment results to a variety of audiences and to identify relevant implications for instructional programs and accountability, and for target student populations, that might assist their communities in obtaining support for literacy development.

Standard 8: Advanced Professional Competencies

8.A2 Programs provide candidates opportunities to develop advanced understanding of the continuum of state PreK-12th grade foundations/standards and frameworks in reading and literacy, and relevant research (including terminology) upon which they are based.

8.B2 Candidates are provided opportunities to develop advanced professional knowledge about how to evaluate, select and support implementation of programs based on the needs of the local school/district and community population.

8.B5 The program provides opportunities for candidates to develop professional knowledge about the characteristics of effective professional development, including relevant research, adult learning theory, and best practices, in order to plan, implement and evaluate professional development that will enhance teachers’ content knowledge, assessment, and instruction in all aspects of a comprehensive literacy program at the county, district, school and classroom levels.

Standard 9: Integrating the Curriculum through Clinical Experiences

9.2 The program provides candidates multiple opportunities to integrate research and practice by using research-based strategies at multiple sites or the district level to:

9.4 evaluate the current instructional practices and use of district-adopted instructional materials at those locations,

9.6 Candidates will have the opportunity to create professional development and coaching/mentoring procedures to support adoption of new instructional or intervention strategies.

7 The program provides opportunities for candidates to improve the literacy skills of the full range of learners including beginning, intermediate and adolescent readers, English learners, and students with reading difficulties and to evaluate the effectiveness of the intervention and extended support currently offered to students using standards-aligned and state- and/or district-adopted instructional materials and to implement alternative or additional instructional approaches and materials, as appropriate.

Standard 10: Planning, Organizing, Providing and Leading Literacy Instruction

8.B3 Candidates know and use theories and research related to adult learning theory as it informs professional development on literacy acquisition at the school or district level.
Candidates can facilitate collaborative processes with teachers and administrators for designing, implementing, and evaluating action research projects, case studies, and/or state or federal programs.

0.C3 Candidates analyze instructional practices and evaluate student assessment data at grade, school or district levels to plan and provide guidance, coaching and/or professional development to strengthen appropriate practices as needed and work collaboratively with students and their families, teachers, administrators, specialists, and other interested stakeholders to design, implement and evaluate a comprehensive literacy plan or a specific component of that plan.

10.D1 Candidates critically examine the relevant research and recommendations of experts in the field and incorporate that information when generating and communicating to stakeholders the results of reliable and informative evaluations of current literacy practices including program strengths and weaknesses and program effects on various aggregate student populations. Candidates utilize that information to develop a plan for improving literacy learning that includes communication about the planned changes to all interested stakeholders and a process for implementing and evaluating those changes.

Writing Assessment Policy

Purpose:
The two purposes of the Literacy and Reading Education Writing Assessments are to:
- Develop proficient writers through assessment and support, and
- Provide data for the purposes of program evaluation and improvement.

A similar writing assessment is required of all graduate programs in the College of Education.

Description:
- The Literature Review Assignment in READ 511 (Research) and The Language Acquisition Assignment in READ 514 (Linguistics) have been identified as the graduate student writing assessments for Graduate Reading Programs. The final drafts of the writing assignments are assessed.
- The Language Acquisition Assignment in READ 514 fulfills the Graduate Writing requirement and will be taken within the first nine units of the program.
- The Literature Review Assignment in READ 511 will be used as a midpoint assessment of student writing proficiency.
- The same assignment for these assignments will be assessed for all course sections.
- The rubric used to evaluate both assignments is common across the College of Education. The rubric is based on a 6-point scale (5-6 = Exceeds Expectations, 4 = Meets Expectations, 1-3 = Below Expectations).
- Four categories of traits are assessed:
  ✓ Completeness of Response & Quality/Clarity of Thought
  ✓ Organization, Sequence of Ideas/Focus
  ✓ Accuracy of Content/Vocabulary
  ✓ Resources/Support/Examples
- An additional assessment of content is conducted.

Responsibilities of READ 514 and 511 Instructors
Instructors of READ 514 and READ 511 will:
- Identify Literacy and Reading program candidates in a given course section
- For Literacy and Reading candidates scoring below 4 on the Literature Review Assignment (511) or Language Acquisition Assignments (514) forward a form letter and a copy of the rubric assessment to the candidate and to the Literacy and Reading Department Graduate Program Coordinator
- Forward individual scores on READ 511 Literature Review Assignment for all Reading candidates to the College of Education Assessment Director. (These data will, in turn, be provided to the Literacy and Reading Department Chair.)
Responsibilities of Candidates Determined to be Non-Proficient Writers:
Candidates scoring below 4 on the Language Acquisition and Literature Review Assignments will:
- schedule a meeting with the Literacy and Reading Department Graduate Program Coordinator to develop an approved plan for writing improvement, including specific criteria for satisfactory completion of the plan.
- provide documentation to the Coordinator that the criteria for satisfactory completion of the plan have been met, and receive the Coordinator's approval signature on the improvement plan prior to enrollment in READ 507 and READ 581.

Resources for Writing Improvement
Plans for the candidate to ensure writing improvement may require that the candidate:
- arrange for and document tutorial help at the University Learning Center or other support center tutorial help at the University Learning Center.
- enroll in and successfully complete a composition course, e.g., English 301.
- demonstrate improvement by submitting a subsequent course writing assignment to the Literacy and Reading Department Graduate Program Coordinator prior to enrollment in READ 581.
- demonstrate improvement by completing a supervised writing sample assignment.

Notice of Non-Proficient Writing

Student Name: ___________________________ CWID: _______________ Semester/Year: __________

Dear Literacy and Reading Program Candidate,

Your overall average score on the writing assessment for READ 514 (Linguistics) or READ 511 (Research) was below the “meets expectation” level (< 4). Writing proficiency is important to your success as graduate program candidate, and Literacy and Reading Department faculty support your commitment to obtain the assistance needed to meet the standard of writing expected in graduate courses.

A copy of this letter and a copy of the rubric assessment of your writing have been forwarded to the Literacy and Reading Department’s Graduate Program Advisor. It is your responsibility to schedule an appointment with the Graduate Program Coordinator to identify ways to improve and to demonstrate that improvement. Failure to do so may result in your being barred from enrolling in further classes.

READ 511/514 Instructor ___________________________ Date __________

A plan must be developed in consultation with the Literacy and Reading Department Graduate Program Advisor. The plan must include specific criteria for completion, and be must be successfully completed prior to enrollment in READ 516/581. Sample plans are described below; other individualized plans may be developed as approved by the Advisor.

☐ Candidate will arrange for and document tutorial help at the University Learning Center or other support center, and provide a list of writing proficiencies addressed and improved.

☐ Candidate will enroll in and complete a composition course, e.g., English 301, and receive a grade of B or above.

☐ Candidate will identify a writing assignment in the following semester's planned coursework to be competed with a grade of B or higher.

☐ Other ___

Note: Failure to complete a plan for writing improvement may result in the candidate being placed on academic notice until writing performance is satisfactory.

Culminating Options for the master’s degree

One of the following classes must be selected as a culminating experience for the Master of Science Degree. The Study Plan will reflect the option selected. You may change your Study Plan exit option by filing the Change of Study Plan form.

1. Comprehensive examination:
   Register for Read 595 Advanced Studies for one unit. This course is taken during the final semester in the program. It is a capstone experience that requires you to draw on the knowledge and experience gained over your program to answer two questions. The class meets for the first six weeks of the semester. At the last class meeting a take-home question is distributed. The response to this question will be a 2000-word paper, fully referenced (APA). The take-home response is submitted after two weeks. A second question is given. This “in-class” question response is provided during a timed two-hour exam session. The in-class portion of the exam is usually held in a computer lab. Responses may be word processed or handwritten.

   Students wishing to demonstrate proficiency in a constrained time frame may prefer the comprehensive exam option. Read 595 provides an opportunity to organize and view course work into a cohesive whole that extends understanding of theory and practice.

2. Professional Project:
   Register for Read 597 Project for one unit. This course should be enrolled in during your final semester. It will be your capstone course for the program. Projects are informed applications of knowledge developed during your program. The emphasis is on practical application and may include curriculum development, action research, audiovisual production, or policy development. The target audience is the school community (teachers, parents, administrators). Students selecting this option should plan to write and submit a project proposal the semester before registering for Read 597. See the next section for additional information about the project.

   Students wishing to provide a concrete practical application of their knowledge that advances current professional practice may prefer this option. Students work closely with a project advisor to create their product.

3. Thesis:
   Register for Read 598 Thesis. This course should be enrolled in during your final semester. It will be your capstone course for the program. A thesis involves scholarly research. It involves qualitative or quantitative research methods and statistical analysis. The audience for a thesis is the academic and scholarly community. Students selecting this option should plan to write and submit a thesis proposal the semester before registering for Read 597.

   Students who have determined a research agenda and who are planning on pursuing a doctoral degree may prefer this option. Students work closely with a thesis advisor and committee member(s) to create to conduct their research. An oral defense is the final step of a thesis.
Pros and Cons of Comps vs Project

Pros and Cons of the Exit Options:
- READ 595 Comprehensive Exam
- READ 597 Project

READ 595 Comprehensive Exam
This capstone experience requires you to draw on the knowledge and experience gained throughout your program. The class meets for the first five weeks of the semester. At the last class meeting a take-home question is distributed. The response to this question will be a 2000-word paper, fully referenced (APA). The take-home response is submitted after two weeks. At that time, an in-class session is scheduled, and a second question is given in a timed two-hour exam session. The in-class portion of the exam is usually held in a computer lab. Responses may be word processed or hand-written.

| - The time frame is externally established you will complete in 7 weeks.
- The class provides opportunity to review the knowledge you have acquired, and to and to organize it into a cohesive whole that extends understanding of theory and practice.
- The class provides the opportunity to practice writing in response to the type of essay question that will be given in the take-home and the in-class portions of the exam.
- Exam questions focus on practical applications of knowledge.
- There is a high pass rate – approximately 90-95% on first attempt.
- If you do not pass one of both parts of the exam, you will be given the opportunity to re-take the section(s). | - This is a “high-stakes” test. However, failed part(s) may be re-taken.
- The in-class portion is closed book/notes, and timed (2 hours).
- The nature of the exam may cause anxiety. |

READ 597 Project
This capstone course is an opportunity to apply the knowledge and information gained throughout the program in a practical application Project. Projects focus on areas such as curriculum development, action research, professional development, audiovisual production, family literacy programs, curriculum guides, or policy development. The target audience is the school community. The Project is completed independently, under supervision of your project advisor. Students selecting this option should plan to write and submit a project proposal, including a timeline, the semester before registering for Read 597. The Project write-up is a 5-chapter, APA style paper.

The experience culminates in a tangible produce in the form of a bound book.
- The process is self-paced.
- The independent nature of the process is good preparation for students who may be pursuing PhD study in the future.
- There is a high pass rate – approximately 90-95% on first attempt.
- If you do not pass one of both parts of the exam, you will be given the opportunity to re-take the section(s).

The Project often takes more than one semester to complete.

Steps in Writing a master's Project (READ 597)

Department of Literacy and Reading Education: READ 597

The Masters project includes a creative or pragmatic product and a theoretical defense of the product. The product might be writing a children's book, creating a new assessment tool, developing interdisciplinary unit lesson plans, assembling information for forming a reading center, developing a handbook for family literacy programs, or any other product of interest to you. Many people utilize the work they have done in other classes and expand it into a complete project. Others have turned a school-based assignment into a project for their degree. The following steps are recommended for completing your project.

1. Obtain the READ 597 code number and register through the normal process. You will take READ 597 for one (1) unit. It is recommended that you officially enroll in the course the semester that you will complete the project. You can work on the project before official enrollment under the guidance of your advisor. The project proposal is due the semester before you register for READ 597 (Week 13). If you do not complete the project the semester you enroll you will receive an “in progress” (RP) grade. Remember that you must be officially enrolled the University the semester your project is completed in order to receive a graduation check. Non-enrollment during the final semester disqualifies you from using the university facilities, including the library. You must maintain continuous enrollment in the university in order to graduate by signing up for GRAD 700 (http://www.fullerton.edu/graduate/currentstudents/graduateforms.asp)

2. Meet with your project advisor. The instructor assigned to READ 597 will normally coordinate the project. You will work closely with this person throughout the project process. The responsibility of the advisor is to give you direction, guidance, and support. Use this person to answer questions, direct your efforts or act as a sounding board for your ideas.

3. Write the proposal for your project. The formal proposal is a means of introducing your project advisor to the particulars of your project. It should be relatively brief (5-7 pages) but specific enough to give the advisor the information he/she will need to help you form the components of the project. The proposal that you submit may get altered in the process of discussing your ideas but after discussing it with the advisor, you should have a fairly concrete idea of what the project will involve. The project proposal is due the semester prior to enrolling in READ 597.

4. The proposal should include the following sections:

   - Statement of purpose. This should be a short (2-3 paragraphs) statement of the purpose to alert the committee to your intent and direction.
   - Review of related literature/research. This section provides the theoretical defense for your project. It should cover the research/literature on the major areas related to your topic. This section convinces the committee of the need for the product, and assures the members that you understand the topic you are developing. Note: This section usually becomes the second chapter of your project, so it needs to be well-developed and well-documented.
   - Detailed description of the project. This section should include an explanation of why the project is significant and the specifics of the project (intended population, topics, purpose, etc.).
A timetable. This section should include a schedule for completing each of the parts of the project so your advisor can anticipate when you will need their attention to your work.

A bibliography. This section will include all of the resources you have used in your writing thus far.

5. Submit a copy of your proposal to your project advisor. Electronic copies (no cut and paste or handwritten copies will be accepted) should be submitted to the advisor the semester before you enroll in READ 597. Your advisor will offer suggestions, modifications, and cautions. Electronic copies of the proposal will be returned to you with the individual committee members’ comments for your consideration. One copy will be kept on file in the committee advisor’s office.

6. Begin independent work on your project. Once the proposal has been approved, you will want to begin the product portion (Chapter 4) of the project as well as the first parts of the theoretical section (Chapters 1-5).

7. Consult with your advisor. The advisor’s responsibility will be to answer your questions and guide your independent work. Seek your advisor’s help whenever needed. Please note that either a face-to-face or online “real-time” class meeting with other READ 597 students will be scheduled twice each semester and your attendance is required.

8. Complete the final project. See descriptions of the required contents of Chapters 1-5 on the following pages. It is recommended that you submit your project in “chunks” to your committee members in the following order: Chapter One and Two, Chapter Four, and then Chapters Three and Five. The Project Handbook is posted in the MS READ Titanium Community site.

9. Submit the final draft copies. Submit a copy of your final draft to the advisor. It is suggested that you submit copies of the title page in advance so that faculty can provide you with original signatures on those pages when they approve your final project. Suggested deadlines for submission of final draft are December 5 for the fall semester and May 5 for the spring semester.

10. Submit the complete project. One library bound copy is required for the Department. You may want to bind another one (or more) for your own use. Please contact the Center for Oral and Public History on the 3rd floor of the library (PLS 363) for project binding (657-278-3580/COPH@fullerton.edu). After the submission, the project advisor will submit a final grade card for you and inform the Graduate Office that your project is completed.

Resources for Literature Reviews

When preparing a Literature Review, be aware of what you are reading and how that sort of reading can contribute to your exploration of your issue. Here is a rough overview of several types of articles in the field of education.

Research Reports: These formally report data that the author has collected to answer particular questions. They generally include Statement of Problem Review of Relevant Literature, Method of Data Collection (including pertinent details of research site) and Data Analysis, Findings and Interpretation of the Findings.

Research Reviews: These summarize research done on a particular topic. You should cite the review in your own paper. If you want to cite (refer to) individual studies the author has discussed, read them yourself; you don’t want to be dependent upon someone else’s interpretation. Research reviewers generally point out areas of agreement or disagreement among researchers and discuss implications for teaching.

Essays: These papers discuss (without going into all the details of a formal research report) the author’s own experiences or those of others in order to make a point.

Theory and Practice Pieces: These are a kind of essay. These authors might report on observations made in their own or others’ classrooms that verify or call into question current thinking about an aspect of language teaching and learning.

Following are a few sources of information in the field of Literacy and Reading:

Edited Books:

Journals of the International Reading Association (IRA)
- Reading Research Quarterly (primarily experimental research studies)
- The Reading Teacher (preschool-middle school)
- Journal of Adolescent and Adult Literacy (secondary education)
- Thinking Classroom (international journal of theory and practice)
- Lectura y Vida (literacy in the Spanish-speaking world)

Journal of the Literacy Research Association (LRA)
- Journal of Literacy Research (preschool-adulthood)

Journal of the National Association of Multicultural Education
- Multicultural Perspectives (articles, reviews, program descriptions, and other pieces by and for multicultural educators and activists around the world)
Journal of the California Association for Bilingual Education
- Multilingual Educator (articles, reviews, program descriptions related to bilingual/bicultural education)

Journals of the National Council of Teachers of English (NCTE)
- Research in the Teaching of English (research journal)
- Language Arts (preschool-middle school theory and practice mainly)
- Voices in the Middle (middle grades)
- English Journal (secondary theory and practice primarily)
- College Composition and Communication (research articles)
- College English (theory and practice)
- English Education (teacher education across levels)

Journals of the California Reading Association (CRA) - Research in the Teaching of English (research journal)
- The California Reader (a quarterly publication; focus on California; mainly theory to practice articles, teacher-as researcher pieces, and opinion pieces, K-12)

Journals of the National Association for the Education of Young Children (NAEYC)
- Young Children (birth to age 8; primarily theory to practice articles but also includes good research reviews)

Journals of the American Educational Research Association (AERA)
- Review of Educational Research

Journals of SAGE Publications
- Journal of Early Childhood Literacy
- Journal of Literacy Research

The Advocate (includes both theory to practice articles on children's literature and discussions of policy issues)

Teaching Performance Expectations: Coursework is also aligned with the California Standards for the Teaching Profession and Teaching Performance Expectations. Based on research and grounded in practice, expectations focus on understanding and organizing subject matter for student learning; developing as a professional educator; creating and maintaining environments for student learning; planning and organizing instruction; engaging and supporting all students in learning; and assessing student learning.

Content Standards and Frameworks: The philosophy of the California Frameworks for K-12 is the foundation for teacher preparation.

Just, Equitable, and Inclusive Education: Our program focuses on the need to prepare teachers to become advocates for students and their families. Taking an approach that focuses on issues of social justice, diversity, and inclusiveness, the Literacy and Reading Program encourages candidates to take critical stances in their literacy instruction and pedagogy.

Online Learning Environments: Our courses are delivered both face-to-face and WEB-based. Palloff and Pratt (1999) have developed a practical, hands-on guide to help faculty create virtual classroom environments that facilitate student interaction. Ideas in the text serve as foundational concepts for online instruction by our faculty.

READ 508 FOUNDATIONS IN LITERACY: TEACHING AND LEARNING

1. Nell Duke, a foremost researcher in reading comprehension, shares study findings which highlight best practices for teaching reading comprehension. In addition, the goal of the paper is to describe proven techniques for teaching comprehension along with how to incorporate these into a balanced program of comprehension instruction. Finally, she shares a model for comprehension instruction.

Richard Allington, a foremost researcher in the field of reading, shares research findings regarding effective practice for teaching beginning reading. He also shares what the research says about teaching practices that should be eliminated. He makes a strong point on what practices work best for struggling readers.

David Pearson has written extensively about explicit comprehension strategies that have proven most effective, including prediction, questioning, graphic text representation, think alouds, and summarization.

READ 514 LINGUISTICS AND LITERACY INSTRUCTION

J.P Gee situates reading within a broad perspective that integrates work on cognition, language, social interaction, society, and culture. In his book, he argues that reading and writing cannot be separated from viewing, speaking, listening, and interaction, on the one hand, or using language to think about and act on the world, on the other. In this text, Gee also introduces social languages and discourse as relevant aspects to learning literacy.

Brian V. Street, who has been instrumental in the formation of New Literacy Studies, brings to the field of literacy a renewed convergence between semiotics and communication, in particular the work of Gunther Kress, and situated approaches to literacy, in particular the work of David Barton in England, His pioneering contribution to the ideological model of literacy provides a solid foundation for understanding literacy in its situated, political, and historically mediated contexts. Key texts include:

READ 507 LITERACY IN THE ACADEMIC DISCIPLINES

Elizabeth Moje, who draws from sociocultural approaches to literacy development. Her earlier work pushed the boundaries of 1980s “content area literacy” instruction, by looking at literacy practices in and outside of school settings. More recently, she has been a major contributor to disciplinary literacy, that is field specific literacies bound to each discipline. Key readings include:

Timothy and Cynthia Shanahan argue that “disciplinary literacy” — advanced literacy instruction embedded within content-area classes such as math, science, and social studies — should be a focus of middle and secondary school settings. This position moves beyond the concept that every teacher should be a reading teacher and instead approaches literacy from the perspective that experts in different content areas access text materials in different ways. Their work suggests that teachers should teach students to use the strategies and techniques used by various content experts.

READ 536 LITERACY CURRICULUM: DESIGN, IMPLEMENTATION AND EVALUATION

Ray Reutzel and Sarah Clark provide explicit examples of how to set up a classroom to support literacy instruction. They do this by breaking down elements of effective literacy instruction and sharing where/how a classroom should be designed to meet to provide excellent instruction for that element. They emphasize that often the classroom environment can be an impediment to effective instruction. They go so far as to incorporate how to collect, manage and analyze student work samples so that instruction is maximized.

Lev Vygotsky’s theoretical framework is that social interaction profoundly influences cognitive development. Another aspect of Vygotsky's theory is the idea that the potential for cognitive development depends upon the "zone of proximal development" (ZPD): a level of development attained when children engage in social behavior. Full development of the ZPD depends upon full social interaction. The range of skill that can be developed with adult guidance or peer collaboration exceeds what can be attained alone. Increasing social interaction in classrooms will facilitate language learning as well as concept attainment in content classrooms.

READ 516 LITERACY ASSESSMENT AND ANALYSIS FOR INSTRUCTION

Victoria Risko and Dolores Walker-Dalhouse provide a rationale for using assessment to make informed teaching decisions. It also makes an argument for using classroom based assessments which assess more than a single skill. The article defines formative assessment and then provides instruction on how to design multimodal assessments.

Risko, V. J. & Walker-Dalhouse, D. Making the most of assessments to inform instruction. The Reading Teacher, 63(5), 420-422.

Edwin Teale describes the current state of assessment at most urban schools and then recommends that it be reconsidered so that it will improve instruction for the children who are served. He shares his belief that in most cases assessment was being done for the sake of assessing. He then makes suggestions for what would improve the current situation.

READ 511 RESEARCH IN READING AND LITERACY EDUCATION

John Guthrie’s primary contributions are his work on reading engagement. He describes motivation as including embracing challenge, satisfying curiosities, and expanding a sense of self-efficacy. These processes generate energy for cognitive activities. Motivation, he believes, emerges along with cognitive, conceptual, and social/cultural aspects of the literate individual, and engagement refers to their confluence. His CORI model of instruction emphasizes motivational and cognitive aspects of engagement.

READ 560 THE SOCIOCULTURAL CONTEXT OF LANGUAGE AND LITERACY FOR ENGLISH LEARNERS

Rebecca Rogers demonstrates the “power and potential of educators working together to use literacy practices that make changes in people’s lives, this collaboratively written book blends the voices of participants in a teacher-led professional development group to provide a truly lifespan perspective on designing critical literacy practices. It joins these educators’ stories with the history and practices of the group K-12 classroom teachers, adult educators, university professors, and community activists who have worked together since 2001 to better understand the relationship between literacy and social justice. Exploring issues such as gender equity, linguistic diversity, civil rights and freedom and war, the book showcases teachers’ reflective practice in action and offers insight into the possibilities and struggles of teaching literacy through a framework of social justice.” Rogers, R., Mosley, M., Kramer, M.A. (2009). A framework for critical literacy across the lifespan: A case study of the literacy for social justice teacher research group (pp. 20-32). In R. Rogers, M. Mosley, and M.A Kramer (Eds.), Designing socially just learning communities: Critical literacy education across the lifespan. New York: Routledge.

Louise Rosenblatt introduced the theory of Transactional Reading which maintains that both reader and text are essential to the making of meaning. The reader is active, drawing on a reservoir of past experience to interpret texts. The implications of Rosenblatt's theory range from ideas about instruction, selecting texts, and involving students in the reading of literature.

Sonia Nieto focuses on multicultural and bilingual education, curriculum reform, teacher education, Puerto Rican children’s literature, and on the education of Latinos, immigrants, and other culturally and linguistically diverse student populations. She examines how personal, social, political, cultural, and educational factors affect the success or failure of students in today's classroom. Social justice is firmly embedded in this view of multicultural education, and teachers are encouraged to work for social change in their classrooms, schools, and communities.

Paulo Freire weaved together a number of strands of thinking about critical literacy, educational practice and liberation. His emphasis on dialogue and comprehension struck a very strong chord with those concerned with popular education. For Freire, literacy wasn't just about deepening understanding with the written word-it was part of making a difference in the world, enhancing community, building social capital, and giving voice to the oppressed. An important element of this was his concern with conscientization-developing consciousness that has the power to transform reality. Freire’s notion of critical pedagogy situated literacy education in the lived experience of participants. His ideas of literacy revealed how words hold the possibility of generating new ways of naming and acting in the world.

Michelle Vanderburg and Diana Stephens investigated the way teachers’ beliefs and practices changed based on their participation in a three year professional development which included literacy coaches facilitating bimonthly study groups and spending four days a week in their classrooms. They also reported on what the teachers found helpful. The researchers found that the teachers valued how the coaches created a space for collaboration, provided ongoing support, and taught research-based instructional strategies.

Eithne Kennedy and Gerry Shiel looked at a collaborative professional development experience. The professional development was considered a change process whereby the facilitator established that the “funds of knowledge” of both the facilitator and the teachers would be considered of equal value. The professional development was conducted by a teacher educator who came to the site... every two weeks to provide focused PD in two hour sessions after school. The professional development focused on the implementation of writer’s workshop.

READ 581 STRATEGIC INTERVENTIONS FOR LITERACY SPECIALIST: PRACTICUM

Jim Rubin makes a case for using multiple assessments to make instructional decisions for individuals as well as groups. In addition, the author shares how to organize and analyze the results from multiple reading assessments to ascertain a comprehensive picture of the achievement of students.

APA Style Guidelines (6th Edition) Basic manuscript set-up

- 1” margins, all sides
- double space all (including between lines and headings)
- paragraph indent, 5-7 spaces
- 12 point font
- Times Roman
- Page numbers, upper right, number only, begin with title page
- Running heads – usually optional on student papers
- General info p. 228 (284)

APA References:

- Sample paper p. 41 (306)
- Citing sources p. 169 (207), chart p. 177
- Reference list info p. 180 (215)
- Reference examples p. 193 (232)
- Headings p. 62 (111) or see handout
APA Style Headings

Headings provide a guide to the organization of a paper. They provide the reader with information about a paper's major and minor points and cut down on the need for introductions to sections and the need for lengthy transitions.

APA, 6th edition recommends heading styles that vary from the 5th edition. Below are examples of styles of headings in the form cited in the 6th edition. (Think of three levels in a formal outline. The Roman Numerals, letters, and numbers in parenthesis are there to help show how these levels of headings can be compared to an outline. Do not include them in your heading. But the same rules apply as in outlining. If you have an “A” you need a “B”, if you have a “1”, you need a “2”.)

One level of heading (I, II, III):

- Centered Boldface, Uppercase and Lowercase
- Centered Boldface, Uppercase and Lowercase
- Centered Boldface, Uppercase and Lowercase

Two levels of headings (I, A, B, II, A, B):

- Centered Boldface, Uppercase and Lowercase

- Flush Left, Boldface, Uppercase and Lowercase
- Flush Left, Boldface, Uppercase and Lowercase
- Centered Boldface, Uppercase and Lowercase
- Flush Left, Boldface, Uppercase and Lowercase
- Flush Left, Boldface, Uppercase and Lowercase

Three levels of headings (I, A, 1, 2, B, 1, 2, etc):

- Centered Boldface, Uppercase and Lowercase
- Flush Left, Boldface, Uppercase and Lowercase
- Indented, boldface, lowercase paragraph heading ending with a period.

Notes:
- Quotations: If you use a direct quote include the page number in the citation. For example: (Smith, 1999, p. 27)
- Book and journal titles should be italicized.
- The citations in text should be easily located on your reference page.
- The reference page should include only works cited. It is not a bibliography. It should be double spaced throughout. First line in each citation is flush with the margin. The following lines are indented. This is called a hanging indent.
- The overarching idea of all of this is to cite in such a way that it is easy for your reader to locate your sources. When in doubt use that idea as the guiding principal.
- DOI stands for digital object identifier. The number can often be found on the electronic document record or at either the top or bottom of a pdf document.
Fieldwork and Practicum Experiences
READ MS Practicum Experiences

The Literacy and Reading Program at CSUF provides several opportunities for candidates to apply what they are learning in a “real world” setting:

READ 507, Literacy in Academic Disciplines (2 Hours) - Fieldwork includes student assessment, structured interview, briefing and de-briefing. Candidates are encouraged to invite a learner who differs from them in socioeconomic status, racial identification, ethnic identification, first/home language, gender expression, or ableness/handicap. The idea behind seeking a student with different experiences from your own is that it will offer insights into differentiated disciplinary literacy education as well as insights into literacy practices and dispositions of a variety of learners.

*Selecting a student for this practicum experience:
Face-to-face and fully online instructional formats: Graduate candidates are encouraged to identify an adolescent student at their own school site for this practicum activity. However, if candidates do not have access to a student at their own school site they will confer with the professor who can assist them in finding an appropriate match.

READ 508, Foundations of Literacy: Teaching and Learning (5 hours) - The purpose of this assignment is to meet the competency objectives for the course by developing and refining your ability to use appropriate instruction techniques with an average emergent/beginning reader. To do this, you will need to independently obtain parent/guardian permission to work with a student for a total of 5 hours (e.g. 10 30-minute sessions). The child you tutor should be between the ages of 4-9 and be an average student who is culturally or linguistically different than yourself.

*Selecting a student for this practicum experience:
Face-to-face and fully online instructional formats: Graduate candidates are encouraged to identify an emergent learner at their own school site for this practicum activity. However, if candidates do not have access to a student at their own school site they will confer with the professor who can assist them in finding an appropriate match.

READ 516, Literacy Assessment and Analysis for Instruction (10 hours) - Graduate students will spend five hours with an emergent reader completing a breadth of assessments and composing a parent report of information. In addition, graduate students will spend five more hours with an adolescent student conducting some of the same assessments and others which are appropriate to this level of student.

*Selecting a student for this practicum experience:
Face-to-face: Graduate candidates will be placed with a student who is enrolled in the Reading Center.

Fully online instructional formats: Graduate candidates are encouraged to identify a striving reader at their own school site for this practicum activity. However, if candidates do not have access to a student at their own school site they will confer with the professor who can assist them in finding an appropriate match.

READ 560, (9 hours) - This “action research” project requires that you conduct a minimum of nine (9) hours working with a student who has been designated an English learner (EL) by the school/district. When selecting the student for this case study, please remember that the student must be somehow different from you. This assignment is a required unit and program assessment that ensures that all candidates have the opportunity to work with students that are ethnically, culturally, linguistically, and/or ability-wise different from themselves (NCATE Standard 4).
*Selecting a student for this practicum experience:

Face-to-face and fully online instructional formats: Graduate candidates are encouraged to identify an English learner at their own school site for this practicum activity. However, if candidates do not have access to a student at their own school site they will confer with the professor who can assist them in finding an appropriate match.

READ 581, Strategic Interventions for Literacy Specialists (18 hours) - Graduate students spend 18 hours with clients who are at least one grade level below in literacy related areas. The focus of the course is for graduate students to determine and complete appropriate assessments, design and implement a plan for intervention, post assess and report on progress in a formal report to all stakeholders.

*Selecting a student for this practicum experience:

Face-to-face: Graduate candidates will be placed with a student who is enrolled in the Reading Center. Fully online instructional formats: Graduate candidates are encouraged to identify a striving reader at their own school site for this practicum activity. However, if candidates do not have access to a student at their own school site they will confer with the professor who can assist them in finding an appropriate match.

Literacy and Reading Department Policy for Fieldwork and Practicum Experiences

The preferred documentation required when graduate students participate in practicum experiences is a live scan or a copy of a current California credential. However, the Department recognizes that these forms of documentation are not always attainable. In cases where the preferred documents are not available the following policy should be followed.

1) All assignments that involve graduate students in the Reading program working with children (under age 18) should include that another adult must be in the room when work on the assignment is occurring.

2) All graduate students in the Reading program must have permission forms signed by the parents/guardians giving them permission to work with the child.

3) All graduate students in the Reading program who do not have a credential or a live scan filed with CTC must state this on the parent/guardian permission form.

Policy adopted October, 2012
Live Scan

To all students in the MS Literacy and Reading and/or Reading and Literacy Leadership Specialist Credential or Reading & Literacy Added Authorization programs:

Since you will be working with minors in some of your courses, the state of California requires that a document showing fingerprinting (live scan) be included on your student file.

If you have been granted a credential or preliminary credential this serves as proof of fingerprinting (live scan).

Please e-mail:
  pattypark@fullerton.edu
Include your name and campus wide ID#

If you have not been fingerprinted in the state of CA, you can arrange to have this done at CSUF: https://police.fullerton.edu/fingerprinting/

If you would prefer to get the live scan at another agency in your area, you may wish to Google Fingerprint (live scan) Agencies.

If you have questions or concerns please contact the Dept of Literacy and Reading, Patty Park at 657-278-3497 or pattypark@fullerton.edu for assistance in this process.

Photography and Videography Release Form

I grant permission to employees and agents of The California State University system (CSU), of which the Fullerton campus (CSUF) is a part, to obtain and disseminate photography and/or videography in which I am featured.

I agree that The California State University (CSU) system owns all rights related to the photography and/or videography.

I waive any right to inspect, approve, or be compensated for the photography and/or videography.

I agree that the photography and/or videography may be used on multiple communications platforms and channels without notifying me.

I release the CSU, CSUF, and its employees and agents from any claims, damages, or liability in connection with obtaining or using photography and/or videography.

I am at least 18 years of age and competent to sign this release. I have read this release before signing; I understand its contents, meaning, and impact; and I freely accept the terms.

Activity including but not limited to: student teaching, data collection, student observation, fieldwork, mentorship, clinical hours, events, orientations, etc.

Activity effective date: ______________ through completion of the program.
Activity locations are Various Virtual & Physical

In consideration for being allowed to participate in this Activity on behalf of myself and my next of kin, heirs and representatives, I release from all liability and promise not to sue the State of California, the Trustees of The California State University, California State University, Fullerton and their employees, officers, directors, volunteers and agents (collectively “University”) from any and all claims, including claims of the University’s negligence, resulting in any physical or psychological injury (including paralysis and death), illness, damages, or economic or emotional loss I may suffer because of my participation in this Activity, including travel to, from and during the Activity.

I am voluntarily participating in this Activity. I am aware of the risks associated with traveling to/from and participating in this Activity, which include but are not limited to physical or psychological injury, pain, suffering, illness, disfigurement, temporary or permanent disability (including paralysis), economic or emotional loss, and/or death. I understand that these injuries or outcomes may arise from my own or other's actions, inaction, or negligence; conditions related to travel; or the condition of the Activity location(s). Nonetheless, I assume all related risks, both known or unknown to me, of my participation in this Activity, including travel to, from and during the Activity.

I agree to hold the University harmless from any and all claims, including attorney's fees or damage to my personal property, that may occur as a result of my participation in this Activity, including travel to, from and during the Activity. If the University incurs any of these types of expenses, I agree to reimburse the University. If I need medical treatment, I agree to be financially responsible for any costs incurred as a result of such treatment. I am aware and understand that I should carry my own health insurance.

I am 18 years or older. I understand the legal consequences of signing this document, including (a) releasing the University from all liability, (b) promising not to sue the University, (c) and assuming all risks of participating in this Activity, including travel to, from and during the Activity.

I understand that this document is written to be as broad and inclusive as legally permitted by the State of California. I agree that if any portion is held invalid or unenforceable, I will continue to be bound by the remaining terms.
I have been informed and understand there remains a risk of exposure to COVID-19. I understand that regardless of any precautions taken, an inherent risk of exposure to COVID-19 will exist.

I have read this document, and I am signing it freely. No other representations concerning the legal effect of this document have been made to me.
