The Department of Secondary Education is proud to announce that our Master of Science in Education program has been recognized as one of the top online graduate degrees in Education by U.S. News and World Report.

The special features of our WASC Accredited Programs are outlined below.

- Both hybrid (a blend of face-to-face and online classes) and fully online options are offered.
- Candidates develop expertise in culturally responsive education.
- Students move through the program as a cohort in this 21 month program.
- Option to pursue National Board certification as a culminating experience to exit the program.

To learn more about our graduate program and watch a video featuring students and faculty please visit our web site:

The Department of Secondary Education offers two program options, both of which emphasize culturally responsive teaching:

- Master of Science in Education with a Concentration in Secondary Education [100% ONLINE]
- Master of Science in Education with an Emphasis in Teaching Foundational Mathematics [HYBRID]

This WASC accredited program is taught by full time graduate faculty members with significant K-12 and university teaching experience.

Enrollment is limited, so check the program web site for important admissions deadlines.
